III. GENERAL INFORMATION

CompStat is a performance management process that is used to reduce crime, enhance implementation of Department strategies, foster compliance with Department standards, and achieve other Department goals and objectives. CompStat emphasizes thorough data analysis, information-sharing, and accountability as a means of improving effectiveness within and between the various units of the Department. A central component of the CompStat process involves regular meetings at which specific units, operations, or issues are highlighted and reviewed. The process includes the development and implementation of response plans to address identified crime trends and performance concerns, and the process requires on-going monitoring and follow-up. The Chicago CompStat Model utilizes a probative approach to assess unit, supervisory, and command performance in three categories:

- A. Readiness—examining factors relating to the unit’s preparations to meet its assigned responsibilities.
- B. Response—examining factors relating to the unit’s activities and operations.
- C. Reach—examining factors relating to the unit’s internal staff utilization and coordination efforts with other units, agencies, and the community.
